Aston believes the new fund name more clearly reflects the principal investment strategies of the Fund.

Under normal conditions, the Fund invests at least 80% of its assets in common stocks and other equity securities of small-cap companies with market capitalizations of less than $6 billion at the time of acquisition that the portfolio managers believe are undervalued. Value investing involves buying stocks that are out of favor and/or undervalued in comparison to their peers or their prospects for growth. The Fund may also invest in common stock of companies with market capitalizations that exceed $6 billion, real estate investment trusts (“REITs”), convertible securities and foreign securities (directly and through depositary receipts).

In addition to the existing benchmark, the Russell 2500 Value Index, we will also include the Russell 2000 Value Index for further comparison.

Using systematic and dynamic internal research, the portfolio managers narrow the field of small- and mid-cap companies into a more refined working universe. The portfolio managers then employ a value-driven, bottom-up fundamental approach that seeks to identify certain characteristics including:

- priced at a discount to absolute value
- attractive business model
- shareholder-oriented management
- financial strength
- undiscovered, underfollowed or misunderstood companies

To manage risk, the portfolio managers employ a strategy of diversification, and adhere to a structured sell discipline.

Note: Small- and mid-cap stocks are considered riskier than large-cap stocks due to greater potential volatility and less liquidity.

Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the Aston Funds carefully before investing.
